Dear Manager Sergio Comesaña:

I was looking for a job through the InfoJobs website and came across your company's profile (TechnologySilva S.A.). I became deeply interested in the job position: First Technical Web Developer. It didn't take long for me to decide to send you this email, as I believe I am well qualified and confident in my abilities to meet the demands of the role.

During my studies, I gained practical experience building full-stack web applications using modern technologies such as HTML5, CSS, JavaScript (React and Node.js), as well as backend development with PHP and MySQL. My final project involved developing a responsive e-commerce platform from scratch, integrating secure user authentication and dynamic product management. I am also comfortable working with Git and agile methodologies, and I enjoy contributing to collaborative environments.

My interest in this sector has been growing steadily through not only academic work but also extracurricular involvement. For example, I have participated in hackathons and online coding challenges (such as FreeCodeCamp and Advent of Code), which helped strengthen my problem-solving skills under pressure. I also follow industry trends and am continually expanding my knowledge through online courses, especially in areas such as API design and accessibility.

I would welcome the opportunity to bring my enthusiasm, technical knowledge, and eagerness to learn to your team. Thank you for considering my application. I would be delighted to discuss how my background and aspirations align with the goals of TechnologySilva S.A. and would appreciate the chance for an interview at your earliest convenience.

With best regards,

Marcos Chouza Cruces
